DOTHAN, ALABAMA, MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 13TH, 1909.

NUMBER 308

TWO MEN HURT IN FIGHT WITH NEGROES

During a fight with three negroes over in Frogtown yesterday morning about 11 o'clock Mr. Wm. Newton, a farmer living a few miles from town, was hit by a negro across the head the blow rendering him unconscious and tearing a piece in his scalp about three inches long which required a number of stitches and several hours of medical attention. Jack Dupree, another farmer was also hurt in the scuffle, he having his collar bone knocked out of place and although Mr. Dupree's injury was painful it was not so serious as Mr. Newton's.

Mr. Dupree, Mr. Newton and a man named Strickland were driving out to their home in the country and as they passed these negroes, Mr. Newton's hat blew off and seeing the negroes he asked them to kindly hand it to him. For answer he received a very insulting remark from one of them which was readily resented by Mr. Dupree who jumped from the buggy and began whipping him. The two other negroes also began fighting and when the two white men saw that they were getting the best of Mr. Dupree they immediately sprang from the buggy and went to his aid. Mr. Newton says he was hit when he first got to the fight and doesn't know what hit him. Mr. Strickland states that he saw the negro when in the act of rendering the blow and that Mr. Newton was struck with a picket from a corn by fence and that Mr. Dupree was also hurt with the same stick.

Mr. Newton was carried to a nearby physician's as soon as the negroes had fled and Mr.

Dupree's injury was also dressed, while Mr. Strickland escaped with little or no bruises.

Although the injuries sustained are very painful, they are not serious and the two men are able to be up again this morning.

One of the negroes has been caught, but the other two have not been apprehended.

Henry being short of funds decided to pocket the 64 cents and owe the railroad for the freight. So he was arrested and brought to the Mayor's court where he was asked to kindly pay the city fifteen dollars. When asked how old he was, Henry replied Fifty on whatupon Mayor Baker said he'd fine him 64 cents or forty five days on the streets. Henry said he was glad he wasn't 25 years old. THE TRUTH CAN BE FOUND OUT

The cartoon in Friday's Advertiser is grossly misleading, and is calculated to prejudice the uneducated. It shows the picture of two bad looking officers with hands drawn on an innocent looking housewife, who seems to be coming up some blackberry cordial. The officers look like they hate to do it but owing to the drastic laws, they are compelled to. Any one who takes the trouble to read up on such things readily detects the misleading points the picture is expected to bring out.

The Safe and Sound League circular reads something like this: "To perpetuate those laws which make it possible for sheriffs, constables and police officers to break into and search a private residence, for it that prohibition amendment is engrafted into the Constitution, no home will be protected against arbitrary search, and the people of Alabama will have less freedom than those of Russia now enjoy."

The Safe and Sound League know that the masses will never know but what they are telling the truth. We want to help remedy this. Let's see if this can be done. Section IV of the Constitution of the United States reads as follows:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation and particular describing the place to be searched, and the person or thing to be seized."

The above is from the United States Constitution, and this is from the Constitution of the State of Alabama:

"That the people shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and possessions from an unreasonable seizure or search, and that NO WARRANT SHALL BE ISSUED TO SEARCH ANY PLACE OR TO SEIZE ANY PERSON OR THING WITHOUT PROBABLE CAUSE, SUPPORTED BY OATH OR AFFIRMATION."

Now you see what we are up against.

We need not fear the truth. We only fear that the people will cast their votes on this measure before they are aware of what is the issue.

No one should do this. The truth can be found out. Don't believe what any man says from any side, when the truth, undisputed may be ascertained.

The Advertiser knew when it printed this misleading cartoon that the thousands of people who saw it wouldn't take the trouble to see if it represented the truth.

OUR IMPROVED MANNERS

The death of Sir Theodore Martin, the British scholar and essayist who saw Sir Walter Scott as a boy and whose career extended over the century, is taken by the London Saturday Review as the occasion for comment on the improvement of public manners during his lifetime. "Many undignified things that he knew of had passed away," says the Review. "Princes had ceased to ride in carriages with bruisers; there were no longer hideous crowds of all classes at prize fights, dog fights, cockpits and ratpits."

An intimation of the general refinement of public taste in the manner of amusements which has taken place on this side of the water during the same period is given in the announcement of a fight in an Illinois city between a man and a bulldog for a purse of $50.

"Sport" of this brutal nature attracts attention nowadays by its rarity and by contrast with the changed standards of amusement. Public opinion long ago ceased to countenance dog fights or to permit the crowd to make a holiday of a hanging as was the case in New Jersey. It puts a ban on all fighting, once a favorite sport in New York where a cock pit existed in the last century but which is now prohibited by law in many states. It is not difficult to fancy the ways of indignation that passed over the country at the announcement of a cocking man of the regulation old time of do, in which sixteen birds were matched and of them the eight survivors until two were left to decide the bout.

Elimination contests of the kind are now reserved for golf and tennis. Prize fighting alone retains its old hold, but precariously as the result of adverse legislation and the bruiser still remains the object of a certain hero worship. But of the elevation of popular taste in sport there are evidences on every side. In the reforming process baseball undoubtedly has exercised a predominating influence.—New York World

WEAK RETORT

There is a trim that the anti-amendment people are using, like this: "I am no prohibitionist. I am a democrat." That is not only a weak, but a silly thing to say, as an excuse for opposing the amendment. If this is offered as the most effective answer as to why they are anti-amendment, it is a poor retort. This is not a question of party politics. It is a question to be settled by democrats and it will be settled one way or the other in a democratic way.

Reduced down to the true meaning, and the people who are opposing the amendment are people who believe in local option and when you scratch just a little deeper they favor whiskey right here at home, sold in the old way either by barrooms or dispensary. They will tell you that they are not responsible for what the other fellow does. If he is fool enough to get drunk whenever he gets to whiskey, they claim that then whiskey shouldn't be put out of their way on the other fellow's account. Then there should be no law governing the making of whiskey. Every man should be given the right to make and drink all he wants.

There is no reason for one's losing his temper talking politics thus early. There is to be several weeks of it yet, and the man who doesn't see the question as you do, will live right on here where you have to see him and do business with him every day.

We are like many other people we love our politics but hate that we are tired of so much political upheaval. When it is not one thing to agitate us, it's another. After the election is over we will all be satisfied for awhile no matter what the result is.

George Washington the childless father of seventy millions. It would no doubt give George a cold to wake him up and tell him that the kids living at and around the north pole had been adopted by his family.

IT IS A MATTER OF TRAINING

Obeying the law is a matter of education.

Some people go along and obey the law merely because they don't want to be bothered with the courts. Most of us obey the laws for this reason.

We must educate ours into doing right because it's right and not because it's the law.

We know that laws do not make us moral citizens.

A law against lying doesn't prohibit it. A law against arson doesn't prohibit it. A law against robbery doesn't prohibit it. A law against gambling doesn't prohibit it. A law against drunkenness doesn't prohibit it.

But we had no laws evening things then, it would be nothing to a couple of sports playing poker for money to chip in the collection on a hot Sunday. You would see men in Dothan with as many wives as they could support at the time they didn't know one such in town. You would have felt that every day it was not for the law prohibiting robbery.

We need educating up to the point. When we do right for its sake it will be no trouble to obey our laws.

There is a law against cursing in the presence of ladies. How often is that law broken. How many men have you ever heard of in the South being tried for cursing in the presence of ladies.

Do men refrain from cursing in the presence of ladies merely because it's against the law?

No, they think nothing of the law on the books but do not curse in their presence because they would feel that if they knew their fellow citizens would not prove it and then on it they know they would lose the respect of every lady who heard of it and they are prompted to refrain from cursing for those reasons and not because it's against the law. Just a matter of education. Such is not tolerated above it. Public sentiment will not stand for it.

When we get our public sentiment to where a man is not allowed access to food, society when it is known that he uses liquor the liquor question is settled in our favor. It will be put to rest. I will never again see a man allowed to go to the saloon and have his cronies. There must be some place to put the man who is in the habit of the people and it is not in our law, after that the law of common sense helps.

What a fine place the laws on the books are for men first of all eternally breaking them and going to court. We will teach our children that it is cheaper not to break them. Our children will teach their children that it is a shame and a serious thing to do these things which the law forbids—not because it is breaking the law but just because it's wrong. In a generation or two people will be hitting whiskey alone because one cannot drink it without putting off on an island alone and drinking his liquor by himself. I do not say all associate with him if he drinks. There will come a time then when the drinking man will be considered a first class criminal and a shame.

The reason this has never been done before is that we have always had anywhere from forty to fifty five per cent of people who didn't mind what you did with whiskey after they were gone but who wanted a little as long as they lived. They raised others who felt the same way about it. This state of affairs is going on for generations not because they could never make up their minds to quit abruptly. They wanted to delay the action for the next generation. They had acquired the taste and while they liked the liquor they knew it was their ruin.

No drinking man ever wants his son to even drink so much as he does. He is afraid. The moderate drinker, the man who can take a drink every day without getting drunk had rather not risk that privilege to his son.

The matter of letting whiskey alone is a big question. One man may inherit such tendencies that one drink may make him a drunkard, others are drunk for years and never get drunk if they are burning up the running race of their malice to the extent that disease will take them off where it would not fatally affect a non drinking man.

Then what's the use. Why tamper with a sleeping bull dog? Got any boys. If you have, don't let them go to training them to love whiskey alone because it has no good to it and contains an element of danger with which we cannot afford to get tangled.

Educate your boys away from liquor as you educate them to obey your laws. As you educate them to be courteous to ladies and as you teach them to conform to other customs of the country in which they live.

DOTHAN STEAM LAUNDRY

Today's Cotton Market Good Middling, 113-40

Walthugh Lee left this afternoon for Oxford, Ga., where he goes to enter Emory College.

When shall we have some public speaking in Dothan? You know we haven't heard a political point debate in ten or twelve years in this town. If we could get Mr. Farmer or Mr. Espey, or our Old Friend Will Lee to give us a date to go into the discussion of this amendment, we will guarantee to have a bigger crowd out to the speaking than has assembled in Dothan for any public speaking at any time. The folks here would like to hear a talk for both sides if there is two sides to the question and that has been admitted by the friends.

Some of the men you have expected for the amendment and then others at present it that actually surprises one. There is no rule of placing a town.

No amendment men have thought about using the old argument about prohibition in this business.

Who's Who at the north pole will never be known till a party is sent out to find out who has lied about it.

THE STRENGTH OF AN OX

one often hears about when one is endowed with health strength and vigor. It is another way of saying "the strength of beef." No meat has the nourishment that gives strength and endurance. Beef is the food of the body and the soul.
